ON SOLDIER-MAKING.

"Heaven has so created the British Empire," said Mr. Norman Angell, of London, Eng., when speaking in Toronto recently, "that it cannot be destroyed—except by ourselves!"

Powerful and full of deep meaning, his words might well be taken as a motto by all Salvation Army Soldiers, for, as has often been said, nobody can harm the Army but those in its ranks.

Fledged as we are "to fight and conquer" the "Yellow, Red, and Black" is at no somewhat as pricing and disappointing that so little effort seems to be made to bring men and women into our ranks—even when they have been converted at our "Conversion" forms? Are we ashamed of the Organization to which we belong? If not, then why do we say so little about it, and secretly disparage our own selves in the sight of those connected with other religious bodies? Has the Army given us a field for active service that others outside our ranks cover every way of their lives?

Then, what right have we to demand knowledge and experience? Circumstances are one of the laws of life. We believe that Soldiers should have the Army gives the maximum of opportunities and privileges—and surely our presence in the ranks is a sure sign that we do—then why not believe that for all we are worth, we should make the most of them wherever we may find ourselves?

A child says the old saw, "it is wrong as its weakest link": how true it is! It is the weakest link in the chain of the Soldier's life that makes him a Soldier. With all his strength, he is only as strong as his weakest link.

Temple's Day of Memories.

THE COMMISSIONER

CONDUCTS HIS FIRST SUNDAY'S ENGAGEMENTS SINCE HIS RECOVERY AT TORONTO'S DOWN TOWN CORPS. THE STAFF BAND PRESENT TWENTY-TWO SURRENDERERS.

HERE was a "two-fold" reason for the resurrection of the Toronto Temple on Easter Sunday, April 15th. First, the crowd that attended the meetings, the soul-saving results, the spirit of comradeship between the two famous Bands that on this special occasion united under the banner of the Staff Bandmaster—all may be traced to the fact of a Risen Saviour, and our beloved Commissioner's resurrection from a bed of sickness.

It was on the eve of a memorable campaign—The General's visit in November last—that our Leader was stricken down; it was on one of the holiest and happiest days of the year that he conducted his first public meeting since his recovery. And how fitting it all seemed!

"Lord, it might have been otherwise," prayed the Commissioner, having first offered thanks for his own presence on that beautiful spring-like morning. Ah! nobody realized that more than he. And as Staff-Captain Jost prayed, thanking God for Calvary and the Vanquisher of death, so the audience filling the body of the main Hall on Sunday morning, was powerfully reminded of the significance of the Easter Day.

One's thoughts travelled back to that first Easter Sunday when Mary Magdalen ran to the sepulchre, only to be filled with poignant sorrow that her Saviour was not there. While thus recalling the scene as it placed on record, and while the congregation was singing a young voice came down one of the aisles of the Hall and weeping, knelt at the Mercy Seat. He had been to the empty sepulchre of the world; now he sought a living Saviour, and he found Him as the meeting proceeded.

Captain Adams read a portion of Scripture, and Mrs. Major Mulhally gave a very human account of her trials on leaving home to become an Army Officer. It was then that she testified the power of Christ's resurrection.

What better subject could be talked about on Easter Sunday morning than Holiness? The analogy between the crucifixion of the Saviour, and His Resurrection and the destruction of sin in the heart, and the restoration of the Divine image therein, was strong, and the Staff Bandmaster, Mr. G. G. G. spoke of it with convincing directness and eloquent simplicity. Purity, of which the lily has ever been the symbol, was the message of Easter to the longing soul.

The Commissioner himself tenderly called for fresh consecrations—there was in reality no prayer meeting—and ten were solemnly, earnestly and voluntarily made. It was a Divinely-sealed service.

The Spirit of Easter was finely represented in the afternoon service, when the Staff and Temple Bands, under Adjutant J. H. G. gave a programme of music and song. Lieut.-Colonel Chandler, Divisional Commander, presiding. The Temple was well filled, and for over an hour the two Bands, with some of their soloists, kept the audience in an atmosphere of holy and joyful praise. The Army selection was played by the united Bands, "My Guide" and "Swedish Melodies" by the Staff Band, and "English Melodies" and "My Light" by the Temple Band.

Marching up Yonge Street from the King Edward Hotel, where the Staff Band's open-air rehearsal, the Commissioner was present—one was reminded that just two years ago that night the "Titanic" went down. Few people who listened to the Staff Band playing "Nearer, My God, to Thee"—a coincidence in itself—remembered what happened on that night two years ago. But the night meeting brought back the crowd to the Temple face to face with something far more vital than the memory of that great disaster: it was the purpose of the Staff Band to give a triumph over death and sin. Brigadier Potter read the Scripture lesson, Mrs. Colonel Chandler soloed, the Temple Songster Brigade and the Staff Band gave special vocal selections, and then the Commissioner addressed the audience on the healing of the leper. The Saviour's power to restore spiritual health was the message of the day.

When He walked this earth, and sin fled at His touch just as did disease and infirmity. He was the only One who rose from the dead: He was the only One who could or dared touch the leprosy of sin.

Two young men were the first to kneel at the Mercy Seat. One had got half-way down the aisle when he was joined, as he passed, by another man, whose whole attitude seemed to say, "Well, if salvation is good enough for you, I'll try it, too!" Five men and women had surrendered back of the altar, and in a spirit of prayerful meeting, led by Colonel Chandler, several others knelt at the Penitent-form.

"During the day the Commissioner was assisted by a number of Headquarters and other Officers and wives, in addition to those already mentioned. The absence of Mr. Cadet Ansell's illness, was much regretted, but both were affectionately converts of the Special Campaign of January, February, and March. Look after them and turn them into soldiers."

Thursday, April 15th.

The Commissioner, on two evenings of last week, had addressed the Training College Cadets. The first evening, he spoke of the "Cross and the Crown," and how true it is that the Cross is still the attraction. He will conduct the week-end meetings at No. 1, Corps, and then on Wednesday, April 18th, by the Commissioner and Mrs. Maidment, celebrating the 29th anniversary of their wedding.

Special noon-day prayer meetings have been held at Headquarters during the Week of Prayer, the Commissioner and Chief Secretary leading on Tuesday and Wednesday respectively.

Brigadier Walker, who was in the city, has been able to leave the night, and is at present resting at home. He, however, will be glad to return to duty at Headquarters just yet.

Brigadier and Mrs. Taylor, with Ensign Malone, the Training College Band, and the Staff Band, left on Saturday, April 14th, for the West, and will be in the city on Sunday, April 15th, and on Monday, April 16th, going and returning by lake steamer. A report will appear next week.

A number of striking photographs of the Newfoundland sealing disaster will be published in our next week's issue.

Arrangements are being made for all the Corps Bands of Toronto to accompany the Canadian Contingent of Officers and the Staff Band to the Union Station, Toronto, on Thursday, April 15th, for the purpose of farewell for the I. C. C.

In the regretted death of Sir Wm. Whyte, of the C. P. R. The Army lost a strong supporter. Sir Wm. Whyte, who was a member of the I. C. C., will be remembered, present over The General's Sunday afternoon meeting in Winnipeg, and his own actions showed his high regard for our Organization. The "War Cry" extends its sympathy to Lady Whyte, and the bereaved relatives.

According to a press despatch, Captain Jean Kean, of Charlottetown, B. C., has received a heart-breaking blow by the loss of the Newfoundland sealing vessels. His brother, Mr. J. Kean, who was the second mate of the "Southern Cross," which went down, and his cousin was the captain. The disasters already reported, say the despatch, "Captain Kean, who is a Newfoundlander, lost five cousins who were frozen to death on the drifting ice floes."

and infirmity. He was the only One who rose from the dead: He was the only One who could or dared touch the leprosy of sin.

Two young men were the first to kneel at the Mercy Seat. Five men and women had surrendered back of the altar, and in a spirit of prayerful meeting, led by Colonel Chandler, several others knelt at the Penitent-form.

"During the day the Commissioner was assisted by a number of Headquarters and other Officers and wives, in addition to those already mentioned. The absence of Mr. Cadet Ansell's illness, was much regretted, but both were affectionately converts of the Special Campaign of January, February, and March. Look after them and turn them into soldiers."

WHAT more moving story can be told than that of the suffering and death of the Redeemer of mankind. How it moved them to repent and to seek forgiveness. The first of the morning, when Jesus came on Calvary's tree and cried "It is finished!" What a power there was in the "It is finished!" and how true it is that the Cross is still the attraction.

No man can talk as they like about the Gospel being there to save us. They must be persuaded themselves and they that humanity stands in no need of an Atonement, but the holiest mockery of all this is brought face to face with the grandeur and sublimity of the sacrifice of the Son of God, and when the Holy Spirit comes, He will make us realize that "He died for us that we might be forgiven. He died to make us good."

It was this grand and beautiful story of the Cross that was presented by means of picture, music, and song in the Massey Hall on Good Friday, the service being led by the Commissioner.

The service was both striking and moving, and it is no exaggeration to say that the audience as the story was slowly

A Growing Attraction.

Every seat was filled before the commencement of the service. Those who arrived a little late, therefore, were not able to get in, and some hundreds had to forego the pleasure of the service—which was not very gratifying to them. But those who were present, it goes without saying, however, that this annual Salvation Army event is attracting an increasing number of people.

The commencement of the service was dignified by the presence of the Commissioner and Mrs. Whyte, who, with their children, immediately upon which sound of sweet chimes was heard. The Massed Bands then played a short selection, at the close of which Commissioner and Mrs. Whyte, Colonel and Mrs. Maidment, and other leading Officers of Toronto Headquarters, entered and took their places on the platform.

At the back of the Hall were three large screens and upon the centre one there now appeared the words of "When I Survey the Wondrous Cross." The congregation all joined in singing this, and as they did so, there appeared on the other screens pictures illustrating it.

Brigadier Hargrave and Mrs. Col. Maidment prayed for the Divine blessing on the service, the Massed Bands, singing "On the Cross of Calvary," whilst all the people remained in the attitude of prayer.

The second congregational song was also about the Cross, and was introduced by the introduction of an organ choir. As the audience came to the first verse of "Jesus, Keep Me Near the Cross," the organ choir took up the chorus and the screens illuminated across on the platform blazed out.

From the back of the Hall came a white-robed procession of children, one hundred in all. As they marched up the aisle they sang "Jesus, Keep Me Near the Cross." The children were in position they sang a song about Calvary, whilst pictures of the Saviour on the Cross were on the screens. As the children marched up, the Bands played that well-

Meek and mild." It was all very pretty and touching.

All this, however, was but the introduction to the main part of the service, which was designated "Calvary: the Story of the Cross." The sacred subject was introduced by a beautiful selection from the Male Choir of the Territorial Staff Band, "I Bore the Cruel Thorns for Thee."

The story was then told in a series of descriptive readings, profoundly illustrated by pictures on the screens and interspersed by solos and selections. Lieut.-Colonel Chandler led the reading, which was so arranged to show the progressive steps in the working out of God's plan of Redemption. The prophecy of Isaiah concerning the sufferings of Jesus formed the first portion; it was foretelling of His death to His disciples by Jesus, the second portion; and the fulfillment of these prophecies by the crucifixion of Jesus, the final portion.

A solo by Captain Dodd, "He Was Despised," followed the first reading; a selection by the Male Chorus, "There is a Green Hill Far Away," the second; and solos by Mrs. Adjutant Hargrave and Captain Harding Rees concerning Gethsemane and Calvary respectively the third. The whole service was most admirably arranged and carried out, and a word of praise is due to Staff-Captain Arnold, Staff-Captain Morris, and Adjutant Hargrave, upon whom fell the entire responsibility for the arrangements. To Mr. Charles Porter, of Yonge Street, Toronto, who loaned the famous Vesper lamps for the occasion, is due the credit for the fine lantern effects.

The pictorial selection of the service now being at an end, the Commissioner gave an address. It is impossible to take part in such a service, he said, "without our spirits being quickened, and our hearts being stirred. Now for a few moments I want you to contemplate what the Cross meant, first, to the Saviour, secondly, to mankind, and, thirdly, what it means to you and me."

He went on to point out that the Cross meant to Jesus the fulfillment of prophecy and the completion of His Father's purpose; to mankind, it meant pardon, holiness, and assurance of Heaven. A personal word of entreaty to sinners, backsliders, and unsanctified souls, concluded the Commissioner's address. The congregation then joined in a consecration chorus, and as they sang one young woman walked boldly up to the front to seek the Saviour.

Colonel and Mrs. Maidment

SPEND EASTER WEEK-END AT HAMILTON I-MONSTER EARLY-MORNING PARADE AND KNEE-DRILL—50 SOULS.

HAMILTON, ONT., has gained some notoriety as the Ambition City of Canada. At night perhaps it was the spirit which the Divisional Commander, Brigadier Adby, has naturally imbibed, that prompted him to invite the Chief Secretary and Mrs. Maidment to spend the week-end at all present to make the most of a real Easter to many souls. Mrs. Maidment—Hamilton would claim her as its own because of previous associations with the Salvation Army Corps—also spoke stirring and refreshing words of counsel, and at the close of the meeting several souls were won to the Mercy Seat seeking pardon.

Sharp at 6:30 on Sunday morning the Colonel, with the "Divisional Commander, met one hundred twenty-four soldiers in an enthusiastic knee-drill. The loud responses, quick and definite testimonies, made one feel it was indeed a "Result to thirty Bandmen, with seventy-four Soldiers, marched through the principal streets of the city, singing and playing appropriate music."

The Holiness meeting, with its atmosphere of freedom and heart-searching, was much appreciated. Mrs. Colonel Maidment encouraged her officers to embrace the Restoration Power of Christ, which would make difficulties and obstructions depart. This power, she said, could be obtained by the strength, and the secret of spiritual prosperity to every soul.

The afternoon meeting was of a special character. The Chief Secretary related some of his experiences as an Officer working among the native people of South Africa, South America, the West Indies, and other countries, where the work is especially with South Africa. The description of the peculiar modes of worship in that land, and the wonderful change, both in the lives of the people and in the work of the Army, was a most interesting and profitable one.

At the close of the lecture, Brigadier Adby said that the Juniors of Hamilton I. had donated their Self-Denial target of $75, and had collected and given $75. This announcement was received with loud cheering.

At night, after two rousing openings, a large crowd gathered in the Citadel to again greet the Colonel and Mrs. Maidment. The Chief Secretary was manifested in the addresses and testimonies given, and even sinners felt compelled to join in the singing, so hearty and joyous was it. The band (which had been working hard since 6:30 a.m.) played remarkably well, and the Songsters, whose singing has of late accomplished much good, took an active part.

Mrs. Maidment gave a very definite assurance of the efforts of God to awaken sleeping souls, and to save them. The salvation of God, she said, would enlighten darkened souls, and make fruitful the most barren. Her stirring appeal was met with attention by the crowd, which entirely filled the Citadel.

Mrs. Brigadier Adby had gone downstairs to lend the meeting a helping hand, and she was singing to prepare the way for the message from the lips of the Chief Secretary. His forceful description of the holiness and consciousness of God—able to do more than tongue could tell—making plain the only way of escape from sin, was borne in upon the hearts of the audience.

Brigadier Adby, in the prayer meeting four or five surrendered.

Admiral and Mrs. Kendall and the Soldiers, also a number of city Officers, rendered splendid assistance in the gatherings.

"Songs of Scotland." The singing by the Band of "Oh, Remember" was greatly appreciated. As Adjutant
